ISWA – The Global Waste Management Network

ISWA – the International Solid Waste Association – is a global, independent and non-profit making association, working in the public interest and is the only worldwide association promoting sustainable, comprehensive and professional waste management.

ISWA is open to individuals and organisations from the scientific community, public institutions and public and private companies from all over the world working in the field or interested in waste management. As the only worldwide waste association, ISWA allows you to network with professionals, companies and institutional representatives on a global scale. Being part of ISWA with its more than 1,400 members in over 100 countries, gives you an unparalleled access to international organisations. Through our Working Groups, we help these international organisations form policy by supplying technical papers and opinions regarding waste practices. ISWA's global waste management network adds up to over 100,000 waste management professionals associated with ISWA National Member organisations alone.

ISWA's unique mix of members spans the whole waste sector for the promotion and development of sustainable waste management across the world:

ISWA is where you need to be as the waste industry undergoes significant changes in terms of the services required by populations and the management of increasingly diverse streams and quantities of solid waste and recyclable materials.

Exposure comes in many forms: business contacts, introductions to suppliers and buyers, conference presentation slots, sharing of the latest research and applied technologies, legislative developments and more.
