

Mario Grosso is Associate Professor in Environmental Engineering at the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering, Politecnico di Milano, Italy .Current activity includes research and teaching in the field of waste management and treatment. In his research group Life Cycle Assessment is widely applied to address key questions related to waste management, at both the technological and planning levels.

He is co-founder and member of the Scientific Board of the “MatER” Research Center (Materials and Energy from Refuse), established within the LEAP laboratory in Piacenza.

He was founder of AIAT (the Italian environmental engineers associations), where he coordinates the Scientific Committee. He is vice-president of ENEP, the European Network of Environmental Professionals. He is member of the Scientific Committee of “Climalteranti” (www.climalteranti.it), a scientific blog dealing with the climate change debate.